What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

He is extremely organized and patient. Does a great job of explaining abstract material, and provides many helpful resources.
Plenty of resources / information made available to us!
Dr. M posted videos for each unit, which was helpful to have to reference when completing homework assignments
I appreciated Dr. Myszkowski's level of organization, as class slides, videos, etc. were very helpful in solidifying my understanding of the course content. He was also encouraging and understanding, which made the class seem more manageable despite the challenging nature of some of the concepts presented.
Very informative lectures
The videos he posted on SPSS were extremely helpful and were very representative of his assignments
Videos uploaded to classes were extremely helpful
He treats us like we don't know anything about statistics which is totally true and very helpful. He makes sure to explain every little thing which is very helpful as well. Overall he's a great stats teacher and I would recommend him to others. He walks us through our work and SPSS and there is no trickery involved in his teaching. He is giving us all the possible tools to learn and understand statistics

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

The class wasn't engaging ... like at all. We were taught at not taught to.
Dr. M's explanation of the content is not always clear, as he expects a basic level of understanding and also goes through material very quickly.
I appreciated the more conceptual breakdown of the topics discussed in addition to the teaching of practical skills (e.g. SPSS, JASP), but I felt as though my understanding of the conceptual topics took a sharp decrease at some point in the class as topics got more complex. Providing further clarity early on may help.
na
He could have been a little more engaging
More practice throughout the lectures w/SPSS could be helpful
He doesn't spark discussion too much

Do you have anything else you wish to write regarding any of the statements in the previous sections? If so please provide your comments.

Comments

He is super knowledgeable, he just needs to engage and include the class in doing so. Reading from a screen of things that he prepared for 3 hours straight every class gets boring very fast and is not an effective way of teaching – especially given that half the slides were packed.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

Dr. Myszkowski was knowledgeable about the course material and was willing to answer all questions regarding the course material. Unfortunately, there was also a lack of application of the course material that, if present, would have aided in the understanding of the course materials.

I appreciate the fact that Dr. Nils was really patient with the class and was always willing to explain things multiple times. He really strive to ensure that all students understood the course work and would excel in the course.

He was very knowledgeable about the subject, and thus was passionate about teaching a rather boring subject. He always answered questions to the best of his ability and made class time more than just reading off the slides. Also, he considered students' needs by giving frequent breaks.

Dr. Myszkowski was extremely helpful, and happy to address all questions and concerns. He explained concepts thoroughly, and used real world examples to apply concepts. Dr. Myszkowski also introduced the class to a variety of softwares/ programs that can be used for statistical analysis which will be helpful in the future.

Organized powerpoints and homeworks were very helpful checkpoints throughout the semester

I think that Dr. Myszkowski has a strong knowledge base in psychometrics which is helpful for teaching.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

Dr. Myzkowski has a tendency to mumble making it difficult to understand what he is saying.

n/a

The course material itself was challenging. So, classes were often long and boring regardless of the teaching.

Overview of concepts which are hard, which we will need to know for doctoral projects in the future

The provided study guide was helpful, and contained a comprehensive review of course objectives. Additionally, the study guide was helpful in preparing for the final exam.

Homeworks were super helpful

I think that the videos that were created for different topics and assignments were helpful in understanding the course.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about this course?

Comments

lots of statistical knowledge which was very complicated and went beyond the scope of the field which we will need

N.A

No in-class exercises besides watching instructor provide examples

I think that the course had a large theoretical component as opposed to a more applicable component.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments
I believe that Dr. Myszkowski is very knowledgeable about the subject area.
Great professor.
I think that Nils was very open to questions and showed enthusiasm for the course topics.
Dr. Myszkowski is very well versed and knowledgeable of the subject being taught. He was nice and approachable
I definitely liked his power points. His videos to help us with homework assignments were also effective.
I think Dr. Myszkowski did a great job in presenting lectures and homework assignments that were extremely clear and concise.
He is very passionate about the subject and material, and uses his passion to teach in an interesting and understandable way.
His slides were amazing and very clear on the material we learned in class. I also appreciated the videos he provided on SPSS!
Dr. Myszkowski has a clear passion for the subject. I feel like I learned a lot in this course.
He was very knowledgeable on the subject, and was willing to re-explain topics that students did not understand.
makes videos step-by-step

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments
Dr. Myszkowski has a very advanced understanding of the subject area, but has a difficult time conveying the course content in a way that students can understand. He is often long-winded and tangential, which can make students very confused by his explanations. He also takes a substantial amount of time explaining slides, which leaves minimal time for practical use of analysis in class, which is relevant to homework assignments.
NA
However, I felt that Nils would often run on tangents and I would get lost in the tangent and confused. Additionally, I think using real-number examples rather than algebraic or symbolic expressions of equations would have been more helpful in learning and truly understanding the material. I also felt that Nils struggled with time management.
Dr. Myszkowski seemed to explain things in an unnecessarily complicated manner that students found confusing. It would be helpful if in future courses he stayed on track and found concrete examples of these theories to use, rather than trying to just try to teach the theories.
I wouldn't say least valuable, but I was hoping when we talk about examples to use real-life examples or practice problems so we don't have to think abstractly.
I really do not have any major criticism for Dr. Myszkowski – I greatly enjoyed his class and feel that I learned a lot!
N/A
N/A
Sometimes I felt that we spent a long time on certain slides and that after a while it got a bit confusing at times.
The whole class was a lecture that was hard to follow and people often got lost in his explanations. He was definitely very knowledgeable but it was confusing when some of the basic topics were not explained before the more difficult topics.

The videos and slides provided to elaborate on course material and concepts.
I felt that the assignments really helped foster my understanding of the topics.
I learned from the homework assignments and exam review, and feel like I gained a general understanding of the course material through activities

NA
Again, i felt that the very long amount of time on theory often lost me.
The material was not presented in a manner that allowed us to run with it, we did not start using SPSS until very late on, and some of the material did not feel relevant.

We struggled to get through the slides on some days and I feel that those days were a bit more challenging to understand as we would spend longer on certain slides on those days.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

Dr. Myszkowski is an incredible resource for statistical knowledge, and I think Stats III was by far the best course we've had with him so far. The earlier stats courses were a bit overly theoretical at times, but in this course the focus on theory seemed much more applicable and I felt like it vastly improved my understanding of GLM and other approaches. Dr. Myszkowski was always supportive in making sure students understood the content, stopping to review and answer questions whenever we asked and making himself available outside class to troubleshoot R code despite his busy courseload. I don't know how he does it all!

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

We fell a bit behind the syllabus, which was disappointing since it left less time to go over some of the advanced techniques that I was least familiar with – but it was a pretty ambitious syllabus to begin with, and we covered a lot!

Do you have anything else you wish to write regarding any of the statements in the previous sections? If so please provide your comments.

Comments

The homework assignments/workload for this class were very reasonable; I really appreciated the instructor's understanding and flexibility in the assignment schedule. Also sharing R code files and video lectures on Classes was extremely helpful!

What element(s) did you find most valuable about this course?

Comments

The amount of theoretical and practical knowledge covered, the opportunity to get more practice using R, and getting to use our actual research projects/data toward the final project

What element(s) did you find least valuable about this course?

Getting off schedule and needing to rush through the last few topics

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

I love how Nils makes sure to show everything in R. He takes the time to go through each step and makes sure to answer any questions we have. He also takes the time to also write out formulas and explain them on the whiteboard. His homework assignments reflect what we learn as well.

It was helpful to have the slides in classes and video tutorials of stats.

I found Dr. Myszkowski's examples of using R very helpful. His powerpoints on doing specific statistical analysis using R were very helpful to learn the code.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

N/A

I wish that Dr. Myszkowski would use actual numbers when teaching statistical concepts. Using the calculus or algebraic formulas is very confusing whereas actual numbers make things so much more clear for me.

Nils is a really great and caring professor. I appreciate his understanding in and outside of it. He is definitely one of the faculty members that I feel has provided support to his students.

None.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

Dr. Myszkowski is a fair grader and is compassionate about his students' stress levels/difficulties. I appreciate him as a teacher.

Dr. M has a great sense of humor, and I really appreciate his recognition that most of us are not statisticians.

He always paused to answer questions. His drawing concepts on the board helped bring some of the hard theoretical concepts to life. He was considerate and understanding with respect to questions and concerns.

He is so knowledgeable

Great!

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Too much information at once and too much theory without grounding it in something concrete first.

Do you have anything else you wish to write regarding any of the statements in the previous sections? If so please provide your comments.

Videos extremely helpful

Maybe this is how the course has to be but I would have loved to review real articles and understand the models that were used—really more an applied stats approach I guess. I think it was really hard to find the motivation to try to understand all these tests with no real understanding.

For a PsyD student this was not a very useful class. I think if it was focused on the doc project, that might be better. But doing through all of the different SPSS and theory feels pointless, practically, for us. I'm not sure why we have to take an additional stats course.

Very nice professor who is always willing to help out students

Made room for questions and provided helpful slides/materials

Dr M is probably a genius, and his knowledge of stats and R is really incredible. He is kind and respectful, and very reasonable when it comes to assignments.

Dr. Myszkowski is very knowledgeable in his field and attends to students' questions. He is very personable and willing to help students with their statistical analyses.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

He goes very quickly through the course content and it is often hard to follow, especially when it comes to the portions where we learn theory.

Sometimes lectures went kind of fast, but there was always room for questions if needed

Dr M doesn't realize that most of the time students are really lost in the theory behind a test and not able to follow along. What most of us need help with is figuring out how to choose tests, what to know about them to do them correctly, and practicing how to do them. Spending so much time on R is not helpful for most students, and the proportion of time spent on the theory/equation for the tests is not helpful because most of us aren't following anyway. I get that it needs to be reviewed, but it would just be so much more helpful if we could, for example, look at data sets together and think about what kind of tests can we do? what questions do we have? etc.

He made the material understandable and provided helpful examples.
Dr. Myszkowski's relatable examples, explanations when going over how to use systems, and step-by-step walk through of course material.
His expectations of us were very clear and he repeated important information multiple times.
The class was so structured that we could easily find information on classes that pertained to what we were learning at a time. He illustrated using tools like JASP and SPSS in class and made videos so that we could learn at home too. Also, the homework assignments and the reviews were very helpful for practicing concepts.
Was able to elaborate on many subjects effectively
I appreciate you how explained everything fully and broke it down in relatable terms!
Dr. Myszkowski made very comprehensive PPTs for our class lectures.
Dr. Myszkowski is very knowledgeable about the topic and has a passion for what he is teaching. I enjoyed his detail in explaining how to use SPSS in preparation for assignments.
Dr. Myszkowski is good at breaking large topics down into more digestible pieces. Videos helped when learning how to use SPSS.

Lectures can be a bit unnecessarily lengthy and complex
Classes were more of a lecture and it could be very easy to lose attention. Encouraging participation by asking the class questions or doing comprehension checks would be helpful.
Taught a lot of subjects at once, felt overwhelming
I think sometimes there is too much lecture during which students may get lost due to there being a lot of words on the slides. I think some of the topics could be simplified and organized in a better way during class to facilitate learning.

Lectures were not the most clear and concise
I think it would be helpful to have more interactive assignments during class time during which students can get involved in working with statistics and running SPSS to ensure engagement and learning.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

How in-depth he goes to explain concepts until students feel confident in their understanding

He has a clear enthusiasm for what he is teaching which motivates us as students to be more engaged. Dr. M explains concepts clearly and provides relevant examples which aids student learning. His homework assignments were always fair and relevant to what was taught, and he offered extra help by providing demonstration videos which I appreciated.

I like how Dr. M is very laid back and knowledgeable about the subject. Assignments were very doable and making the exam take home is very much appreciated. Using SPSS is something I have never done before but he made videos to show us exactly what we should know and that was extremely helpful.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

A lot of material in one class and not many opportunities for discussion. Perhaps it would have been nice to work in pairs or groups and answer questions about data sets to practice our learning during class. However, this didn't impact how I did on homework assignments (which were very thorough and I am glad I had all the necessary resources to complete them)

The homework made concepts easier to understand and helped us interact more with what was being taught. Class examples on how to use SPSS were also extremely helpful and I would appreciate more of them helpful usage of Classes, assignments didn't leave me feeling stressed

how it taught us to use different softwares to do statistics

What element(s) did you find least valuable about this course?

Comments

I'm not exactly sure to what extent using SPSS is necessary for the scope of the exams, but Dr. M made it very easy to figure out nonetheless

Dr Myszkowski is undoubtably a genius and expert in the field of statistics. He was helpful during open hours and was respectful and kind.

Dr. Myszkowski clearly presents the course materials and provides beneficial assignments throughout the course that help translate the material into practice.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

It feels like there's no point in writing this because I don't think anyone reads this, but literally nothing I learned in this class was helpful. For one, this class was so far beyond any of our capabilities. None of us plan to be statisticians and just need to learn the basic stats in SPSS and Jasp so we can run our research. We spent 99.9% of our time in R, an extremely difficult to learn software. I feel totally unprepared to do my dissertation even after 3 stats classes for this reason. It's ok for us to learn R but that's just not what we're using right now in most of our labs...I just wanted to get a better sense of ANOVAs, t-tests, regressions, factor analyses etc in stats software we are familiar with.

Given the complexity of some of the course material, it can be challenging to practice on one's own without knowing that the code or output for the practice analyses is correct. Review of homework is very helpful as are practice assignments that include answers at the end of the documents. Having such practice material in addition to the guided class exercises is helpful in gaining more confidence in each analysis.

The class after this started at 7pm, 15 minutes away in another building. This was brought to the instructors attention on Day 1 – and there was a verbal acknowledgement and suggestion from the professor that class would try to end between 615–630 every day knowing we needed to walk 15 minutes, and get/eat dinner. Class ended after 630 more than it did before, and it felt like the instructor didn't care that we wouldn't have time to get to our next class without eating or breathing.

Exceptionally knowledgeable! Dr. Myszkowski has an impressive knowledge of psychometrics and incredible insight. Clearly shows enthusiasm for what he does and is passionate about his work. I appreciate the amount of thought that Dr. Myszkowski puts into his lecture slides and videos, as they are a helpful resource that supports what he covers in class thoroughly.

He provides a lot of examples and different resources to learn the material.

I really appreciate his clarity and video guides, it makes the content easy to digest and learn.

Dr. Myszkowski is a great and very knowledgeable professor!

I find that his teaching is very clear and has information presented on PowerPoints in an understandable way. I also think the HW and exams are fair and correspond to what we learn.

Dr. M has a great sense of humor and explains statistical concepts clearly and effectively.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments
Dr Myszkowski is very knowledgeable in his field and clearly has mastery of the subject. Additionally, his slides are very clear and helpful in understanding the material
He is very knowledgeable in this subject area
He's obviously very knowledgeable and gave relevant examples. He always attempted to relate T&M to our future careers.
He had very clear powerpoints and went through things very thoroughly before it was ever assigned for homework or anything like that.
Very dense course with a lot of information. Professor was not engaging and basically lectured us for 3 hours. It was extremely hard to be engaged for three hours and keep up with the material. More material organization and class participations rather than being lectured to would be helpful.
I think statistics can be a very difficult subject to explain eloquently, but professor did an excellent job in doing so.
He did an excellent job in clearly explaining the course material for all. The assignments were excellent opportunities to check knowledge and understanding of course material. He is more than willing to help explain and assist with any questions regarding class material/assignments/exams.
He is very passionate about the subject and had clear slideshows
He was very prepared for class with the lecture slides. The homeworks were appropriate difficulty and the videos he posted were helpful.
He has a lot of experience in the field and it shows! The video lessons he would post on Classes were hands down the most helpful part of the course. I think while he's teaching in vivo, he had a tendency to go down rabbit holes or go on tangents that made the material hard to follow.
Dr. Myszkowski is very knowledgeable about the topic!

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments
- very confusing
- lectures were hard to follow
Dr Myszkowski is not always very time efficient and frequently ends up needing to rush through important material. While he obviously knows the material very well, he often speaks in tangents and does not convey the material clearly and in a way that is easy for someone who is not a master of the material already to understand. Additionally, while grading requirements were clear from the start (in regards to exams and assignments) the material which students would be responsible for and tested on was not clear at all. Throughout the semester, Dr Myszkowski had assured the students that certain things would not be tested and not be present on the final exam, just for us to find out that the final exam is almost entirely based on much of that information. Had that been conveyed clearly and from much earlier on in the semester, there could have been a lot more focus on learning and absorbing that information, instead of speeding through it and glossing over it as has been done – and which would have been reasonable, if it was not to be tested on as we had been led to believe.
class has little to no room for discussion, i felt there were no example problems done in class to practice the formulas and answering questions that would be on the homework or exams, i would have liked if more time was used to put what we were learning into practice
The course is extremely non-participatory. It's a very difficult way to learn.
Nils is very knowledgeable and can talk a lot about the topic. But he easily loses the student's attention and may not realize that what he is talking about is not understood so easily by everyone else.
I did find it confusing the way he went about explaining things at times and he would often go on tangents about things that he would later say we do not necessarily need to know relating to SPSS and other platforms, which shows his knowledge and passion for the subject, but would often end up confusing me when I was already confused.
The lectures, assignments.
Given that the class is 3 hours long, perhaps breaking it up a bit and making it more interactive would be beneficial.
Some of the material did not seem important, or he would say "you don't need to know this." He would present theories that do not seem to be helpful to the field (i.e., why not focus only on the better theories?)
His lectures were often difficult to follow, mostly because the concepts he was describing were quite abstract, and he wasn't the best at clarifying when questions were asked. The content of the course was pretty dry, which was not aided by the fact that he would often talk in circles or repeat himself.

Nils needs to engage the students in the classroom. I would have enjoyed if we measured and tested a construct and applied it to everything we were learning in SPSS together. If he could make the content more relatable then we would probably be able to understand it better. I had to google everything after class to understand what was going on and complete the assignments.
The lectures were long and not engaging. Participation was not encouraged and rarely happened, even with students asking questions, because most did not follow what was happening. Assignments were focused on using programs like SPSS, but did not utilize concepts learned throughout the course or that were the focus of the final exam. Concepts felt confusing and it was extremely difficult to stay engaged, as instruction was him talking for 3 hours with slides and no alternative forms of engagement or ways to pull students into the instruction or make learning active.

I am very much not a math person and statistics is unenjoyable for me, but that is not a reflection of Dr. Myszkowski's teaching the slides were helpful during class and were organized well

Learning about test theory.
I found it helpful to understand a lot of the theory behind the experiments we are going to be doing in the future and it taught me how to make sure what you are measuring is accurate.
The textbook is helpful for understanding concepts, but the readings are optional and not encouraged by the instructor.
It set a strong foundation to be able to conduct our own research as well as make sense of results from other papers.
I learned a lot through doing the homework assignments and I feel like it was important information. We were provided appropriate materials to complete the homeworks and were given the appropriate amount of time.
The video lessons he posted on Classes

What element(s) did you find least valuable about this course?

Comments
Some assignments felt like busywork and did not feel necessary to the course or to understanding the material further the class is more of a lecture, it doesn't feel very engaging since discussion isn't necessarily welcomed or time to practice problems
I thought the experience of creating our own test would be more instructive.
I found the explanations a little confusing and it would have helped to learn just what we need to know and more simplified.
Lectures.
I would have liked a greater incorporation of the class topic/construct.
Lecture was more important than the readings.
His circular and verbose lectures

I think that even when the course material doesn't lend itself to group discussion, the instructor has to find a way to incorporate student participation.

Nils has so much potential but I don't understand how he can go an entire class seeing the students are totally checked out and not try to engage us more in understanding the content. Math from 9am–12pm is hard for a lot of people and it is even harder if it is not taught in an engaging and relatable way to the layperson. I tried to keep up for the first few classes of the semester, but when he started to confuse me it was hard to not completely lose hope. More in class activities and real-world connections may help.

The course is far too long for anyone to pay attention (three straight hours) and is also first thing in the morning. This made focusing extremely challenging, especially since the subject matter is already difficult.

Thorough, knowledgeable, understanding, and flexible.

Slides are very clear and well organized, Classes page was well organized and supplemental videos helpful

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

He would talk for 3 hours straight with no class participation or discussion. It was sometimes hard to focus on what he was saying.

Dr. M lost track of time a lot during the classes, in terms of going overtime. This was a bit problematic for students who had little to no breaks between this class and the next one, as it did not give us much time. I also wish that the class was a bit more interactive.

The lectures felt a bit long at times — it might be helpful to make the lectures shorter with only theoretical content and then have a separate, asynchronous lab component for applied work, i.e. tutorials with SPSS, etc.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

I appreciated the amount of work we did with R in class.

Very open about answering questions and very accommodating.

He is very knowledgeable and a great resource to have!

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

We went pretty far off the syllabus, which has made it hard to predict which assignments will be due when.

Felt disorganized. Not sure if we were learning things in the best way to apply them to future projects.

He goes very in depth into certain subjects, which is helpful and enhanced my understanding in certain things, but it also means we don't cover everything we need to

Do you have anything else you wish to write regarding any of the statements in the previous sections? If so please provide your comments.

Comments

It would've been nice to learn each type of statistical analysis and learn how to do them in R rather than the way we went about it. It felt like we were learning smaller foundational things (which are important and we should be learning) but it was hard to piece them together and know how to actually use them for anything. Maybe this will be taught in future classes. It was hard to understand why we were learning certain things.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about this course?

Comments

Familiarity with new software

I have learned a lot about statistics and it was very useful to learn the basics of R. The slides provided were easy to follow along with and the assignments helped me practice what we had learned in class.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about this course?

Comments

Little time spent on commonly used statistical analyses

I feel like we could've covered a lot more content but everything just kept getting delayed

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

He is incredibly knowledgeable about statistics and research design. You can tell that he clearly knows what he's doing and that he cares about it.

na

I enjoyed the videos online as well as the fairly straightforward homework assignments.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

He doesn't check for understanding, goes through lessons very quickly, and doesn't clearly explain the functions and ways to interpret the material he goes over. It leaves for a disengaged atmosphere where everyone is confused.

The material itself. Because it wasn't explained in terms of how to interpret it and what the function of it is, I'm more confused than when I came in.

Comments

Nils is a kind and helpful professor. His overall demeanor and affect makes him easy to be around. I think this course could be much more enjoyable and engaging if we slowed down, learned what the material is measuring, and what it means for research in terms of interpretation. That would actually help us to navigate things like SPSS independently while also instead of just getting data, being able to explain what it means independently.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

His flexibility and understanding. His homework assignments.

He makes the expectations for assignments really clear and provides resources (i.e., videos) for us to reference. He makes sure that we have time in class to ask questions on assignments. I like how in his in-class examples and homework's, he teaches us stats but makes the examples relevant to psychology. I also like how he gives us a break in middle of the class, it helps to move around and refresh to keep my focus in the second half.

He presented information clearly in class, used Classes well, provided example videos on how to use SPSS, and was accessible when helpful when needed.

I think he is very knowledgeable, easy going and kind.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

The lectures. They do not stimulate interest in the subject, and it is extremely difficult to remain engaged.

Sometimes he teaches us stuff that we don't need to know

I didn't understand anything to be honest.

Do you have anything else you wish to write regarding any of the statements in the previous sections? If so please provide your comments.

Comments

His videos posted to classes were very helpful and study guides.

I understand that statistics is a challenging subject to teach due to the dense and complex content, but unfortunately, Nils does little to engage the class. The lectures often feel like monologues, with the assumption that everyone is following along, when in reality, many of us, myself included, have been lost since day one.

As a result, I've had to teach myself most of the material to complete the homework assignments, which has been incredibly stressful. This approach leaves me feeling unprepared and terrified that I haven't truly absorbed the information, especially if I need to rely on it in the future.

A more interactive teaching style, with opportunities for questions, clarifications, and active engagement, would greatly improve the learning experience and help students feel more confident in understanding the material.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about this course?

Comments

Practice with SPSS.

Homework assignments really helped make sure i understood the material in SPSS

That Nils is not a rigid professor, is very understanding, and grades in kind.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about this course?

Comments

The lectures. I do not feel like I retained much of anything from the lectures because they involved being talked at about statistics and psychometrics for an extended period. It is so difficult to remain engaged.

N/a

Three hours of Nils lecturing with little engagement makes it nearly impossible to stay focused. I've had to teach myself most of the material, to the point where attending class felt unnecessary.

He wants us to succeed and gives us all the resources we need to succeed.

For these foundational classes, students need much more engagement and support. Shorten the class time and make things easier to understand!!!

The videos he posts explain how to do things really well. So, if you missed part of class or didn't understand something during class, the videos on Classes helped better explain the steps. His assignments were always clear and neatly laid out. Also really liked that he genuinely wants the students to succeed and makes it clear that he is there to help or assist them.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

Especially in the first few classes, it was hard to follow for such a long time. There were no slides up/the syllabus was not up to go over. It was just the professor giving a "loose" overview of the course that lasted three hours.

The exam structure did not feel productive as other exams

It is sometimes hard to understand the dense content in the way he explains things.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

Dr. Myszkowski is very knowledgeable and covered a lot of important material. The homeworks were helpful learning practices and the exam also helped me learn the course material

I found Dr. Myszkowski's very knowledgeable about the topics discussed over the semester. He provided examples to help us understand the topics a bit better, but emphasized that this would be taught more in depth in later courses.

I think Dr. Myszkowski exhibits a great understanding of psychometrics. It's very clear that he's very passionate about the topic, and that's definitely refreshing from the perspective of someone who struggles with statistics. I think that he's also very kind, if someone doesn't understand something he's more than happy to speak with them privately or re-teach that topic again.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

There is a lot to cover and it was my first time with this kind of material so at times it was confusing. I wish we had more opportunity in class to have discussions and I also think that in the beginning of the semester, he didn't use slides as much in class but that would have been helpful. The diagram drawers on whiteboard were a bit confusing at times so I think later in semester when slides became more clear it was great

Dr. Myszkowski was very knowledgeable in the field of psychometrics; however, many of the topics were complex and meant to be an "introduction" for later courses.

I think that the course is quite lecture heavy, which can make the class feel a little monotonous at times. I actually really enjoyed the interactive portions when we were able to go through SPSS together and run simple analyses.

Do you have anything else you wish to write regarding any of the statements in the previous sections? If so please provide your comments.

Comments

While the text did supplement the lecture material, some of the material were complex and needed to be discussed further.

N/A

What element(s) did you find most valuable about this course?

Comments

The slides and video recordings.

I found the homework assignments the most valuable because they allowed us to apply the concepts taught in class to actual data analysis. However, Dr. Myszkowski also said these concepts are best used in R and we primarily used SPSS throughout the semester.

Clear and easy to follow communication, open and kind professor demeanor

What element(s) did you find least valuable about this course?

Comments

Lack of slides and messy whiteboards.

I found the lectures slides the least valuable because they were dense and did not assist in our understanding of the topics. Additionally, Dr. Myszkowski read off of the slide with some input, which made it difficult to understand what was being taught.

Lecture heavy always answers questions and is very available to students

I think Dr. Myszkowski comes across as very competent and knowledgeable. He is incredibly patient and understanding, especially as statistics can be an area where many students struggle. I never feel uncomfortable asking for his help, and that's invaluable to me as a student.

Dr. Myszkowski is very knowledgeable on statistics and the foundations of specific analyses (e.g., linear models, t-tests, etc.). Also, Dr. Myszkowski spent a lot of time teaching us R and RStudio, most of us in the class had never previously used R/RStudio before.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about Nils Myszkowski's teaching?

Comments

I think at times Dr. Myszkowski can work a little fast for me, there are times where I feel a bit lost within all of the statistical jargon and I feel at a loss of what questions to even ask. Luckily, when I can find pertinent questions he is more than happy to accommodate me and will take time to go over his answer in great detail.

Timing. Dr. Myszkowski spent a lot of time going through the lectures, but most of the time was not able to complete topics in one class session and extended them into the next class. Over the entire semester, we only covered a little more than half of the lecture material with many more important topics to discuss further.

We had many holidays and events during the semester that fell right on class time. That made us miss a lot of modules, and I wonder how we will learn everything in the next semesters without being overloaded. The instructor was great at teaching the material. I appreciate his solicitude and understanding.

If Dr. Myszkowski could incorporate more hands on in class assignments/problems for us to collaboratively work through together, I think that would be really helpful for me.

What element(s) did you find most valuable about this course?

Comments

I actually really found the workshops where we interacted with R to be really valuable. I think it also further helped me connect concepts in lectures with more realistic applications (working with datasets in a tangible way).

Applying the course material we learned to actual statistical analyses using R/RStudio.

What element(s) did you find least valuable about this course?

Comments

would prefer for us to go over SPSS and R in this course – the research portion is covered in research seminar and learning basis of equations is not entirely useful to use and difficult to understand especially for those with very baseline knowledge. wish we did more SPSS it's very useful and relevant for us

A bit lecture heavy, I could use more interactive activities to help break up lecture and solidify concepts learned in lecture.

The lectures were long and sometimes prevented us from practice running specific data-analyses in R.

I found the bigger presentation broken down into smaller tasks throughout the semester helped to keep me on track. I also found that having to come up with a topic for my doc project really helped me start to think about and plan for it.

I feel like the lectures are much longer than they need to be— especially the showing of R and JASP which I'm pretty sure none of us use.
